ACCOMPLISHED BLUES-ROCK VOCALIST

BIO

Singer, Tracy J. Reynolds, better known as Maggie Rains, is an accomplished Blues-Rock vocalist who uses elements of Jazz and World Music and the front-woman and leader of the group Maggie Rains & The Crooked Keys -- a seven-piece band out of Southern Colorado delivering high-energy Rock & Roll, Blues, Funk, Gospel, Soul, and Jazz tunes.

Creatively blending a multitude of genres, with influences such as Eva Cassidy, Koto Taylor, Aretha Franklin, Ella Fitzgerald, Joyce Green, and Janis Joplin, with Maggie's soulful, rich vocals and powerhouse performance form the perfect mixture of old nostalgia and today's current adult contemporary needs making their music strong and suited for the masses.

HIGHLIGHTS

- 2015 released debut solo holiday album, "Bows and Paper" (Produced and arranged by Joshua Rumer).
- 2016 released "Anathallo" EP (Invengo Records) receiving regular rotation on radio stations, including UK station Chat and Spin.
- Maggie Rains & The Crooked Keys has shared the stage with names like Devon Allman, Dirty Dozen Brass Band, Duane Betts, Fruition, Kyle Hollingsworth, North Mississippi Allstars, The Main Squeeze, and Vanessa Collier, as well as popular regional acts like Two Faces West and Albuquerque Blues Connection with Mexican Jerry.
- Nov. 2019 heading back into the studio to record their next all-original EP in collaboration with Invengo Productions.
